This easy to read but informative book is both funny at times and serious as its focus is conservation of the environment. You want to pack very warm clothes and join Morgan on an adventure of a life time. Looking forward to the next adventure.

One young woman is chosen for the adventure of a life time to journey to the end of the earth as an Antarctic Youth Ambassador. One of only thirty young environmentalists from around the world chosen, she joins polar explorer and conservationist Robert Swan in discovering the last great wilderness on earth. Yet first she needs to raise the funds to make it to the ice and what follows is four months of determination and perseverance. An uplifting tale about the power of positive thinking and that hard work and self belief can make anything happen. Featuring all of the penguin facts you could ever need, information about the Antarctic Treaty, how climate change is impacting on Antarctica and sustainability tips to help you to live a more eco life as a way forward to protecting Antarctica. This story is a testament to the determination of young people to protect our planet against the backdrop of the most beautiful place on earth, Antarctica.
