His Life and A dventures. Written by Himself. With Portrait and 14 I llustrations, Square Imperial i6mo, cloth extra,

6s. A most fascinating work, full of interesting and curious experiences. Contemporary Review. It is partly an autobiographic sketch of character, partly an account of a singularly daring and successful adventure in the exploration of a practically unknown country. In both aspects it deserves to be spoken of as a work of great interest and of considerable merit. Saturday Review. We can follow M. Vambéry's footsteps in Asia with pride and pleasure ;we welcome every word he has to tell us about the ethnography and the languages of the East. Academy. The character and temperament of the writer come out well in his quaint and vigorous style. . . The expressions, too, in English, of modes of thought and reflections cast in a different mould from our own gives additional piquancy to the composition, and, indeed, almost seems to bring out unexpected capacities in the language. Aftonbladet. Has all the fascination of a lively romance. It is the confession of an uncommon man ;an intensely clever, extraordinarily energetic egotist, wellinformed, persuaded that he is in the right and impatient of contradiction. Daily Telegraph. The work is written in a most captivating manner, and illustrates the qualities that should be possessed by the explorer. Nwowe Vremya, Moscow. We are glad to see a popular edition of a book, which, however it be regarded, must be pronounced unique. The writer, the adventures, and the style are all extraordinary the last not the least of the three. It is flowing and natural a far better style than is written by the majority of English travellers. St. James's Gazette. Over Eighty other English and Foreign periodicals have reviewed this work.
