

[Free] Carpinteria (CA) (Images of America)

Carpinteria (CA) (Images of America)

*Jim Campos, Dave Moore, Tom Moore, Lou Panizzon, Carpinteria Valley Museum of History
DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

DOWNLOAD

READ ONLINE

#1544193 in Books Arcadia Publishing 2007-07-16 2007-07-11 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.25 x .31 x 6.50l, .70 #File Name: 0738547581128 pages | File size: 51.Mb

Jim Campos, Dave Moore, Tom Moore, Lou Panizzon, Carpinteria Valley Museum of History : Carpinteria (CA) (Images of America) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Carpinteria (CA) (Images of America):

A small jewel on the map along the coast of southern Santa Barbara County, Carpinteria or Carp has an enduring and endearing idiosyncratic character that suits locals, welcomes visitors, and resists reinvention. Charlie Chaplin was married in Carpinteria, and Charles Lindbergh was an occasional fly-in visitor. The world's fastest human once hailed from Carpinteria, the same place where a single grape arbor consistently delivered 10 tons of grapes annually. Unspoken traditions included upstanding teachers by day using aliases at night to drive in rough-and-tumble jalopy races. The infectious small-town sensibility remains so intact that most Carpinterians don't vacation elsewhere. Many of the vintage photographs in Carpinteria, which were collected from local families and institutions, including the Carpinteria Valley Museum of History, prove that the city's visuals are as spectacular as its history is intriguing.

About the Author Former educators Jim Campos, Dave Moore, Tom Moore, and Lou Panizzon teamed with the Carpinteria Valley Museum of History to share their collective fondness for the Carpinteria Valley and its namesake city. These outstanding photographs are windows to the insightful anecdotes that capture the multifaceted past of a place that each author feels privileged to call home.