By madcitymom We just got back from a 1.5 week trip to NYC and these cards were so great in helping me decide what would be best to do with my kids (age 5 and 8). I appreciated the food suggestions too and how easy the directions were to follow. Great find! 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. A HUGE waste of money for me By elizabeth mcculloch This was only appropriate for people with very little kids who only want to play in parks and shop. My 7 and 11 year olds want some history and art knowledge too. Not anywhere in these cards is that information imparted. A HUGE waste of money for me... Oh, and Sony Wonderland, as well as Toys-R-Us are both closed. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Good ideas but unclear instructionBy sjrkThese cards are handy and provided some good ideas but the instructions are not super clear. We tried the Brooklyn Bridge card which has you cross the bridge on foot (great walk!) but then instructs you to places to eat in Brooklyn and the directions were very vague and almost misleading. We have a five year old and an eight year old and, after walking the bridge, were in no mood to get lost which is exactly what we did until a police officer helped us out. These are so small they can easily slip into a a purse. We picked a few out and left them in my purse to reference when we had spare time.

Don't worry about finding a sitterthese adventures are designed especially for grownups and kids to discover the Big Apple together!Walks include: Central Park Children's Museum of the Arts Coney Island Chinatown....And more!
