coverage when we travel to Ireland where our children now live. So we use this huge, extremely detailed map for every single road, even the tiniest ones that are supposedly two-way but really not. We just completed our 5th trip to Ireland, and our first to Northern Ireland. This map will be going back with us again. Honestly, based on my daughter's GPS system, it's good to have even if you do use your phone data! 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. This one was BY FAR the most helpful and most accurate, with all of the grades of highways from freeways to tiny village "roads." 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Old school trumps technology. By Anne L. Coursey Unless you have blind trust in technology, then bring a map with you. We used google maps (with mobile wifi unit rented from the car company) which was fine--until it wasn't. It's impossible to get a sense of scale from a smartphone, which only a paper map can deliver. And then there are those places that only God can see you, beyond the reach of wifi or satellites. Getting lost in Ireland is part of the adventure--and it's thrilling as long as you have a map in your glove box to guide you back when you're ready.

A handy color map of the whole of Ireland is packed with detail and features clear and detailed mapping at a scale of 6.5 miles to 1 inch, ideal for easy journey planning
